Property and shall provide invoices, financial statements, or other documents reasonably requested by Customer to prove its ownership or Customer's ownership of the Customer's Property. Supplier shall indemnify and defend Customer against claims or encumbrances on the ownership of Customer's Property and/or the Property of Customer's client or customer, except in the event that the claims or encumbrances are the result of acts or omissions of Customer or its customer. Supplier shall have possession of the Customer's Property on a bailment basis and shall be liable for loss and damage to the Customer's Property while in its possession or control. To the extent permitted by law, Supplier waives any encumbrances or similar rights it may have in connection with the Customer's Property.

(b) Supplier shall (i) keep at its own expense the Customer's Property in good condition and repair such goods, except for the expected natural wear and tear thereof, during the useful life of Customer's Property, (ii) use Customer's Property solely to manufacture, store and transport the Products for Customer unless otherwise approved by Customer in writing, (iii) at Customer's request and expense, mark the Customer's Property as belonging to Customer or its customer, and (iv) shall not remove the Customer's Property (with the exception of shipping containers and the like) from Supplier's premises without Customer's written approval. Supplier shall deliver to Customer the Customer's Property and other property requested by Customer, at Supplier's plant F.C.A (Incoterms 2010), properly packed and marked in accordance with the requirements of Customer's carrier. If the delivery or recovery of Customer's Property and other property of Customer causes Supplier to be unable to produce a Product, the delivery or recovery of such property shall be deemed to be a termination of the Purchase Order in connection with such Product in accordance with the provisions of clauses 21 or 22, as applicable.

(e) Supplier's obligation to deliver and allow Customer to take possession of Customer's Property under clause 19.1(d), shall be conditioned on Customer's payment of all amounts due for Customer's Property under clause 19.1(c), unless there is a dispute between Customer and Supplier over the amount due under such clause 19.1(c), in which case the Supplier shall deliver and allow the Customer to take possession of such goods by payment by Customer of the part of the amount claimed over which there is no dispute. The delivery by Supplier of possession of Customer's Property shall not be deemed to prejudice any claim or right of Supplier with respect of the disputed amounts.

If the Products are systems or modules, Supplier shall sell the Products, components or parts that comprise the system or module at prices that shall not, in the aggregate, exceed the price of the system or module minus the assembly costs. During the period of 15 (fifteen) years after the date on which Customer completes current model purchases, Supplier will sell its Products to Customer to meet Customer's requirements for the service of past model service and spare parts requirements. Except as otherwise agreed by Customer, the prices during the first 5 (five) years of this period will be those in force at the end of the acquisition of current model purchases. The parties will negotiate in good faith the prices, quantities, and delivery terms for past model service Products based on the availability and cost of materials, supplies, and skilled workers, required additional costs for equipment configuration, packaging, shipping and handling, related services, and other relevant factors.

20 BIS. RISKS AND DAMAGES:

Upon such termination, Customer shall pay Supplier the following amounts, without duplication: (i) the price of the Products or Services delivered or completed pursuant to the Purchase Order that have not been previously paid for; and (ii) the costs actually incurred by Supplier for the work in process and raw materials to provide the Products or Services under the Purchase Order, to the extent that such costs are reasonable and proportionate to the completed portion of the Purchase Order, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, on the terminated portion of the Purchase Order, provided that Supplier shall deliver such Products to Customer; such amount shall be subtracted from the sum of (i) price at which Supplier is able to sell such Products or materials to third parties, and (ii) the cost of any damaged or destroyed product or material. Customer shall not be obliged to make payments for finished Products, work in process or raw materials for amounts exceeding those authorized by the Purchase Order, nor for any Products not delivered to Customer that are part of Supplier's standard inventory or that are readily marketable to third parties. Payments made under this clause shall not exceed the total price payable by Customer for finished Products or Services that would have been manufactured or produced by Supplier under delivery schedules or programs under the Purchase Order that is in effect on the date of termination. Except as provided in this clause, Customer shall not be liable for and shall not be obligated to make payments to Supplier, directly or on account of claims by Supplier's subcontractors, for loss of profits, damages, unabsorbed overhead, interest on claims, product development and engineering costs, facilities and costs of rearrangement of equipment or rent, unamortized rental costs, unamortized depreciation costs, or general or administrative burden charges related to the termination of the Purchase Order. Within 30 (thirty) calendar days following the effective date of termination, Supplier shall send a comprehensive termination claim to Customer, with sufficient support data to allow for Customer's analysis and review, and shall immediately provide such supplementary and supporting information as Customer may reasonably request. The parties expressly agree that any right of claim of Supplier will expire in the event that it is not presented by Supplier within the aforementioned time. Upon termination of the Purchase Order, Supplier shall support Customer in locating alternative sources for the Products and Services and in moving production to the alternative sources selected by Customer. Customer may terminate the Purchase Order with 15 (fifteen) calendar days' notice to Supplier, without liability of Supplier, if Supplier, (i) sells, or offers to sell, a material part of its assets, or (ii) sells or exchanges, or offers to sell or exchange, or causes to be sold or exchanged, a sufficient amount of its equity to cause a change in Supplier's control. Termination of any Purchase Order shall be without prejudice to the survival of the provisions of these Terms that are intended to survive such termination, as expressly set forth in these Terms.

(b) Customer may recover from Supplier any damages or costs actually incurred by Customer due to Supplier's failure to comply with these Terms, including but not limited to all attorney and other professional fees and expenses, regardless of whether the breach becomes a Default by the mere passage of time or by virtue of a notice or both. All damages under this clause shall be reasonably determined based on the nature, type, price, and profitability of the Products or Services, industry practices, and the volume, scope, and overall profitability of other business relationships between Supplier and Customer.

(c) If a Default occurs and as long as the Default continues, Customer may immediately terminate the Purchase Order by notifying Supplier, without any liability of Customer and without having the obligation to purchase raw materials, work-in-process or finished Products from Supplier. If Supplier is in Default, Customer's damages shall include the reasonable costs actually incurred by Customer to relocate the Products or Services to an alternative supplier, and Customer shall have the option to purchase the Products completed by Supplier at the price of the Purchase Order and the work-in-process and raw materials, at the price actually incurred by Supplier.

of God, earthquakes, fires, hurricanes, floods, natural disasters, war, epidemics, sabotage, social unrest, quarantine restrictions and other event that is not foreseeable, preventable or controllable, on the understanding that financial difficulties, strikes, stoppages or other industrial actions or disputes solely related to Supplier and/or its subcontractors or representatives shall not be considered as a case of force majeure; and (ii) the party that is unable to perform shall provide the other party with notice of such circumstance (including its estimated duration), as soon as it becomes aware that it occurred or is reasonably likely to occur, followed by notifications without delay of any material changes in the facts affecting its ability to perform and/or the anticipated duration of its inability to perform. Within 3 (three) business days of the other party's written request, the party, the non-performing party will provide adequate assurances that the non-performance will not exceed 30 (thirty) calendar days.
